Hartford Republican

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY MORNING.

J. B. ROGERS, Editor and Proprietor.

FRIDAY, APRIL 29, 1892.

The number of men working on the Exposition buildings is now more than 6,000. On some of the buildings work is proceeding day and night.

A COMPLETE collection of Ohio birds, including every variety known to live within the boundaries of the State, will be an exhibit at the Exposition.

In the Michigan exhibit will be a representation in wax of 500 specimens of fruit which grow in the State. It will be prepared by a Kalamazoo woman.

The oratorical contest to be given in June by the College is creating quite an interest, and something more than ordinary may be expected from the various contestants.

Miss LIZZIE WALKER's many friends and supporters are disappointed that she did not receive the place she sought at the hands of the World's Fair Commissioners. She deserved the place most assuredly.

Of the 75,560,000 feet of lumber required for the Exposition buildings, docks and electric subways, 54,875,800 have been placed. Of iron and steel 39,490,900 pounds, or nearly 20,000 tons are required. Of this nearly half is in its place, and the remainder will be in position before the first of June.

HON. H. H. SMITH, of Hardin county, has announced himself as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the 4th Congressional District. It is rumored, too, that Commonwealth's Attorney C. R. Wathen, of Brandenburg, will also be a candidate, so that it seems pretty certain that the Democracy will have a lively tussle over the choice of their candidate, and that Hon. A. B. Montgomery will by no means have a walk-over.

The Hardin Independent says: "The editor that has learned to look at a thing with an unbiased stare and practiced the free lance in matters of interest to the public picks up a friend here and another there until his paper has gained a wide circulation and becomes a potent factor in shaping the destinies of his locality. The editor may be denounced, hated, and his name bandied about by the belated and foiled corruptionists and law breakers, but the paper goes on growing, and its power is daily acknowledged."

PERHAPS there is no personage who is a greater hindrance to the welfare of the community than is the hard-times croaker. There is no doubt more than one kind of this ever present and ever busy disturber of the public peace. One of these is a set of politicians who cry down the prosperity of a certain occupation merely to begot dissatisfaction among those engaged in such occupation, hoping thereby to gain some political advantage. It is only, however, to the ignorant that they can hope to appeal with success, for every intelligent citizen knows that the condition of the entire people in this country is constantly growing better. But politicians of a certain party whose history is but a conglomeration of contradictions, whose integral principle is opposition, whose hope of success is to create dissatisfaction and whose battle cry is spoils, are ever, parrot-like, crying that the farmer is down-trodden and that he is almost starving to death in consequence of the "Theiving War Tariff." Every intelligent man knows that the farmers are as prosperous as any other class of citizens, and like all other classes they are growing more prosperous. When in the history of the country would a bushel of wheat or a pound of bacon buy more of the things a farmer must buy than at present? Away with such silly trash! A Protective Tariff is the very stay of the prosperity of the American farmer, and he who would destroy it thereby changing thousands of consumers into producers of farm products is the farmer's greatest enemy. Beware of the hard-times croaker and all others.

OWENSBORO.

April 24.—There are grand revivals going on at the Christian and Main St. Methodist Churches. Great work is being accomplished.

Rev. Waldon, of Evansville, filled Rev. Crawford's pulpit at the C. P. Church to-day. Bro. Crawford being absent, and by the way preached one of the finest sermons I ever heard.

Charlie Goldsaw, Boda, has accepted a position in the carriage factory at this place.

Miss Myrtle Howard, city, granddaughter of Uncle Billy Foster, of Hartford, is very sick at this writing with typhoid fever. PLEACE.

KINDERHOOK.

April 27.—Miss Ida Smith, Owensboro, is visiting friends and relatives in this and adjoining neighborhoods.

Misses Evaline Brown and Jessie Thomas, Centertown, are visiting Mrs. Jo. Foster at this writing.

There was a large crowd assembled at Alexander Schoolhouse last Sunday evening, to listen to the sermon, which was well delivered by Rev. J. R. McAfee. We wish to hear him preach again.

Miss Willie Hart, Vine Grove, is the guest of Mrs. Jo. Bennett.

Mrs. T. L. Baird has returned home after two weeks visit to friends and relatives at Caneyville.

Misses Alice Bowman, Mattie Luce, Messrs. Jo. B. Rogers, Thurman Westfield and several others from Hartford, attended services at Alexander Sunday evening.

GRASSHOPPER.

Advertised Letters.

The following letters remain dead in the Hartford post-office and will be sent to the dead letter office if not called for in ten days: Addie Gloss, Mr. Grube, Emma Haynes, Henry Jackson, (2) J. B. HARTFORD COLLEGE.

A Short Sketch of Its Worth and Popular President.

Dr. Wayland Alexander was born June 26, 1839, near Louisville. He is a descendant of an old English family, which came to this country about the time of the Revolution, and took up arms in the cause of Independence. His father, Joseph W. Alexander, was a Virginian by birth, but following the tide of emigration he came to the Western wilds and settled in Kentucky about 1825. He spent the greater part of his life in farming in Jefferson county, and in 1856 moved to Daviess county, where he lived until his death in 1876.

His mother's maiden name was Caroline Wells—she being a member of a family which achieved considerable distinction in the early Indian wars of Kentucky. Young Alexander was of a very studious turn of mind, and attended the country schools of his District until the age of fourteen when he had made sufficient progress to be admitted to the University at Greencastle, Indiana, now Depaw University, where he remained two years. In 1855, he left Greencastle and came to Shelbyville, Kentucky, and entered the College there, having for his preceptor, Dr. William I. Waller, a man of remarkable talent as a teacher and renowned for his virtues as a Christian. He remained here two years, and while in Shelby county studied law in the office of Judge Joseph P. Force, and went then to Louisville to attend the law lectures at the University of that city.

About this time he was compelled, owing to a lack of means, to discontinue his studies temporarily; but he at once set about to replenish his diminished resources, and with this object in view, opened a school at Sacramento. In this undertaking, his untiring energy and indomitable perseverance were at last crowned with a well-merited success, for he soon commanded a liberal patronage which has steadily increased with his growing popularity as an educator. He has now taught for thirty-three years in the most thickly settled portions of the Green River country and is widely known and universally respected for his virtues and talents. Although his profession necessarily takes a great portion of his time, he loses no opportunity of adding to his already immense store of knowledge.

He established, in 1873, the South Carrollton Male and Female Institute in which he was very successful. He has been Principal of Hartford College for ten years and has just been chosen for a term of two years more, and it is due to his persevering and untiring efforts that the College has achieved its present enviable position. The Institution is in a very flourishing condition and is under his direct supervision, assisted by an able corps of teachers. It embraces in its curriculum the studies of a complete education, including the higher mathematics, ancient and modern languages and the classics. He was married September 4, 1860, to Miss Jennie Davis, daughter of Charles W. Davis, a prominent physician of Muhlenberg county. Of their seven children, only one is now living, the brilliant and accomplished Mrs. W. L. Spalding. Strong will-power and indefatigable energy, rather than inherited talents, have made Dr. Alexander what he is, the ablest and most popular educator in this part of the State.

In the thirty-three years of his life as a teacher, he has never taught an unsuccessful school; and his students are ever alert and full of life. He infuses into them something of his own energy and push and thus it is that his schools never lose their interest. His students, numbering thousands, occupy every position, inhabit every part of the Union, and are among the most intellectual and most prosperous of her citizens.

SULPHUR SPRINGS.

Chas. Landrum and daughter, Miss Ida, Ind., are visiting relatives in this community. They were formerly of this county, and will probably remain here.

Rev. Lawson preached a splendid sermon here Sunday night.

Miss Lucy Townsend is visiting friends here.

Our farmers are busy planting corn.

The young people of this place had quite a nice time boat-riding Sunday. Quite a number of our people have gone down the river with logs.

Mrs. J. B. Cannon is ill.

There is some talk of a wedding here in the near future.

Robert Tharp, Etanville, is the guest of P. Martin's family.

Our accommodating druggist, A. S. Aull, says that the people are distressingly healthy in this community.

LOUIS XIV.

The Farmers of Ohio county who intend buying Machines will bear in mind that the McCormick broke the great Machine Combine last year.

Call on Tracy for McCormick Mower; the best on earth.

CENTRAL GROVE.

April 25.—The River is booming, raft-men flying, back-water coming, but we have no boats selling up and down the beautiful river. Why is it that Uncle Sam spends so much money cleaning out the creek and no steam boats come. Uncle Buck, we have plenty of water and some to spare.

Tom Bell, of McLean, is visiting friends at this place. The farmers are far behind with their work, and the prospects look gloomy.

We have a union Sabbath School, and good interest is taken by all who attend. W. B. Tichenor and wife and Birks Tichenor and wife were the guests of Mrs. Maggie Tichenor Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. W. N. Pirtle sold a fine colt to Mr. Bell, of McLean county. Methinks I can hear wedding bells in the near future. Look out! preachers, be ready at all hours.

Joe Ford, Kinderhook, was in our midst Sunday. LEO.

Tracy will also handle the best Hay Rake made.

A New Line.

We have added to our stock a full line of Carpets, running from the cheapest to the finest BRUSSELS. Housekeepers will find this a convenience. They can get Carpets at home. Call and see them.

"Seeing is Believing."

And a good lamp must be simple; when it is not simple it is not good. Simple, Beautiful, Good—these words mean much, but to see "The Rochester" will impress the truth more forcibly. All metal, tough and seamless, and made in three pieces only, it is absolutely safe and unbreakable. Like Aladdin's of old, it is indeed a "wonderful lamp," for its marvelous light is purer and brighter than gas light, softer than electric light and more cheerful than either.

Look for this stamp—THE ROCHESTER. If the lamp dealer hasn't the genuine Rochester, and the style you want, send to us for our new illustrated catalogue, and we will send you a lamp safely by express—your choice of over 2,000 varieties from the Largest Lamp Store in the World.

The two Big Shows that will visit our town in the next few days will attract many people. But in the meantime we are attracting the attention of the people far and near by our CASH-PRICE INDUCEMENTS.

Space will not allow us to quote prices, but plain, blunt facts, that cannot be denied. We are under selling ourselves since we adopted our Cash System.

If you have money to spend, only try and see what we propose to do. We cannot credit anyone, but can save anyone money.

Every Farmer, His Wife, Son and Daughter are invited to bring your WOOL and come and see us for your spring bill of goods. We can do you much good. Don't allow the wool pulled over your eyes by some Merchants that sells on long credit and then have Cheek and Gall to stand up and say: "We will sell as close as them 'fellers.'" Don't be humbugged any by his song of "we'll accommodate you;" you have paid him many times for such an accommodation in the big profits of credit.

We are going to expect you in to see us in a few days for your Clothing, which never was better nor cheaper from the Children's Jersey Suits up to the finest Men's Suits.

Our Dress Goods and Millinery will be of great interest to you, and with these two lines we feel safe in saying that nobody equals us in quality nor equals us in price.

They have a nice shop, well furnished, with elegant revolving chairs and other conveniences. Call on them for anything you may need in the tonsorial line. Remember their place, opposite Salzer's and near Cloverport Hotel.

Harris & Reed.

Many excellent communications are crowded out this week.

Rev. J. H. James preached an interesting sermon at the court house last Sunday morning.

Hartford College has a good base ball team as can be found in any similar institution in this part of the State.

We extend a cordial invitation to all Wheelers to come and examine our immense stock of Clothing, Hats and Shoes. Just look and you are bound to buy; the prices make you do so. Kahn's Trade Palace.

C. T. Baird, of Louisville, will on May the 1st, sever his connection with the insurance agency, with which he has been connected for some time and take an agency in the Royal Insurance Company of Liverpool.

The second game of ball between the "Court House Clique" and the College nine was played Wednesday evening, resulting in a score of 11 to 14 in favor of the College nine. An inferior ball rendered the game very uninteresting.

Advertisers, in order to be up with the times, have most of our space this week, which we appreciate and hope they will get value received. A live, wide awake merchant knows a good thing when he sees it, consequently he advertises in the REPUBLICAN and his advertisement is read all over the county.

Dental Notice.

Dr. J. P. Williams, of the office of Dr. W. B. Arnold, of Owensboro, will be in Hartford May 1st, and remain five days. Those needing dental work done will do well to call on Dr. Williams while here.

Your Picture.

R. E. Clark, one of the finest Photographers in Owensboro, will be in Hartford about the 5th of May, and will remain one month. He does first-class work at reasonable rates and you can do no better than to call on him for fine photographs.

Look For Yourself.

The National Building & Loan Association has just declared its fifth dividend of twelve per cent, which is the largest net dividend ever declared by any Association, because they deduct nothing from the Capital stock or monthly dues for expenses. So you can see that your stock in the National will mature in from one to three years sooner than one that takes from 8 to 10 cts. a share per month for expenses. Don't fail to see their special agent, C. S. Crocutt, at Hartford House.

The Adolphians.

The Adolphians gave another elegant entertainment at the College Hall, Friday night. Rev. J. R. McAfee opened the exercises of the evening with reading and prayer. President, W. H. Rhoads, made a few appropriate remarks, and then introduced the chorus, "The Crucified Lord," which was beautifully rendered. Silas Tichenor read a very interesting essay on Self Examination. News No. 1 by J. L. Elmore was full of good things. "How to the Line, Let the Chips Fall Where They May," captivated the audience by his happy hits. Quartette, "We are Drifting Down the Stream" by R. Foster, U. C. Barnett, Wm. Foster, Jr. and A. P. Thomas, was highly enjoyed. W. H. Barnes' "A Day in the Woods," was a pleasant little piece of pretty word painting, far above the average in merit. News No. 2 by R. Foster was much in its matter and well read. "Happy are we to-night Boys," solo by L. R. Barnett, was beautiful in sentiment and well rendered. The inimitable, J. H. Barnes, in his Comic Declamation brought down the house and was cheered to the echo. The address, Onward, by Wm. Foster, Jr., was the finest piece delivered in Hartford in many a day. The evening's exercises were closed with the chorus, "The Patter on the Shingles" which was a fitting close to a very pleasant evening.

The young men deserve great credit for their good work.

A Great Show.

The Miles Orton Mastodon Shows that are to exhibit at Beaver Dam on May 11 is transported on its own train of twenty cars. The fine stock is particularly noticeable, upwards of 100 Norman draft horses, Arabian ring horses and Shetland ponies. The show carries 250 employees and the most perfect discipline is maintained in the several distinct departments. We are informed that Mr. Reutz, the well known showman and circus manager, is the proprietor of this enterprise. His connection with it is in itself a sufficient guarantee of its excellent and unimpeachable character. Our exchanges have fairly teemed with its praises for the past few weeks, and while it makes no pretensions to being the "biggest show on earth," yet all who have seen it attest to the superior character of its program and general make up. Among its male and female performers are many who have achieved arctic fame and well-known to the show going public. Coming so well endorsed and recommended, we do not hesitate to recommend the show to our readers.

Traveling men with whom we have conversed, and who have seen the show at various places, attest to its general excellence, and say that one of the most noticeable features is the entire absence of all questionable characters and followers.

Wanted.

10,000 pounds of Wool for which we will pay the highest market price.

TOWN TATTLER.

YOUNG AND OLD—AN OLD FAVORITE.

The following beautiful poem was written by Charles Kingsley:

When all the world is young, lad,
When all the trees are green;
And every goose a swan, lad,
And every lass a queen;
Then hey for boot and horse, lad,
And round the world away.
Young blood must have its course, lad,
And every dog his day.

When all the world is old, lad,
And all the trees are brown;
And all the sport is stale, lad,
And all the wheels run down;
Creep home and take your place there,
The spent and named among;
God grant you find one face there
You loved when all was young.

Hartford's citizens might, could, would or should wish to walk, but if they did they can only take the street for it. They can only stumble, not walk, along our miserable plank walks.

The Middleborough Democrat thus describes the latest fad, which should become very popular: "The latest fad is fishing by moonlight. It originated here, and will prove popular elsewhere. You procure a pole, line and hook, and your best girl, and hie to the banks of a stream. The girl does the fishing, while you hold her securely to keep her from falling into the water. No bait is necessary. It is said that the girls will fish for hours and never complain of getting tired. They declare that it is just too lovely for anything."

The mind of the Tattler has been greatly agitated since our town was over-run with monkeys and hand organs, and we sympathize with the plebeians, because of their financial failure, by the non-appreciation of the monkey, which, as we are taught by Evolution, at some remote period was transformed into a man, and what worries us is our desire to see mankind prosper in whatever he may undertake. We trust this failure will result in our good, however, because our town is not educated up to that high order of things, and it is a luxury the town will have, or at least we think it should have. Now, let some enterprising young fellow of town procure one of these little animals and one of those Heavenly (?) toned organs and go into the business here; be one of the fixed establishments of the town, and then it will be that our generous and liberal citizens will open their purses to sustain the "monkey business." As we write a certain young man is brought to our mind, that, by the eternal fitness of things, would be a winner in this business. He resembles a monkey, and is a fine musician, of the crank variety, and no doubt by a little persuasion would take hold of this business.

DOCTOR TAYLORS SURE CURE</

HARTFORD AND HARTFORD PEOPLE.

By J. J. Valentini.

DEAR EDITORS REPUBLICAN.—Again we are thinking of Hartford and our recent visit there, wondering, too, how it ever happened that we became so wonderfully attached to your charming young "tooth-carver."

Without a doubt, Dr. White is the most charming of dentists and the handsomest, brightest of young men it has ever been our good fortune to know.

We could hear nothing of our old colored friend, Fack. His barber shop seems to have fallen into the possession of Cain & Co., who know full well just how to manage a real genuine shave. Bless the meat shop, there it is, as in the olden days, and Mr. Ross quite as faithful, and fat as ever. Then comes the undertakers' shop still manipulated by our good friend, Ben Bean. Once more, and oh! how glad we are to stop again within the walls of the Thomas store, where we were so thankful to meet again E. B. and Pete. Surely they will not always be found measuring out coffee, sugar, &c.

Afterwards we visited the Republican office. We are satisfied that it must be tiresome to be an editor, or a typesetter, and then the downstairs room did not look exactly business-like, still we were charmed with the extreme politeness of all connected with that office and sincerely trust that ought also to come, our success.

King's lively stable, of course, is a thing of the far distant past; Fack & Co., have the stable, Casbeer & Burton the one once owned by Yeager, but close by we found Mr. Yeager back at his old trade, blacksmithing, and toiling too, equally as hard in the race for the "Almighty Dollar" as in his younger days. Then again we were in where we heard the striking blow of the anvil of our old bachelor friend, Dick Williams, still working on and on, day in and day out, for days, weeks, months, even years in the self-same little shop. We wished him many more such happy years, and left him, to visit Mr. Schumacher's shoe shop, which has been of vast importance since the year one. And while we were meandering round and about town we came across a new Bean drugstore and Bean grocery, which add greatly to the looks of your town. And now we come to the house so long run by Williams Bros., which has become a part of town and could not well get along without it. We were kindly welcomed by the jeweler, Mr. Martin. While it is true, we never heard of him in the olden times, we are charmed by his extreme attention. On up the street we had a pleasant chat with Uncle Jim Thomas, and Owen, you can not imagine how proud we were to see them in their old accustomed place. Then we discovered the new firm of Morton's shoe shop, and it is ever so nice a place to while away a few minutes looking into new goods at Carson's new store, but we hurried on till we came to the Bank of Hartford and how very pleasant it was to have a good old time talk with Capt. Cox. We were forced to hurry away however, for a word or two with Mr. Weissheimer. His little watch shop little changed, was indeed a comfort to us. We strolled on and on, then, until we were past the court house and after wandering about for awhile we dropped in on Miss Annie Lewis and we were really tempted to purchase a hat any way, although she had none for the stronger sex, but before we knew what we were about we were absolutely talking with Mr. Werner and looking through his shoes, then we were reminded, we were not young again and that the olden times had not returned, and so we hastened away for a walk, we knew not where, but ere long we found ourselves near the little dam. Ah, so often have we stood there, our little trials and sorrows weighing us down, but now here we are, after all these changes in the town we love so well, after all the sorrows, disappointments and cares have gone of so many years, after our faces are wrinkled, our hairs are gray, we have come again to see and hear what we can of the things we loved, and we listen to the roaring of the water we seem to hear some faint voice whisper: "Such are the changes of a few years and so do things pass away as a tale that is told."

TAYLOR MINES. April 15.—Again I will send you an item or so.

The Parrott lost his house by fire last week. All his provisions and much of his furniture were destroyed. He will rebuild.

Mrs. Balford, Horton, and El Dillman, Rockport, have moved to our town. We welcome them.

Jo Rogers will move to the Anders' property soon.

The colored part of town has a projected meeting, and the white part would do well to have one of their own.

FLAP JACK.

Stop My Paper.

Some people seem to have a gift of hurting people's feelings. This is noticed more by the newspaper fraternity than any other class of men; for instance, a man may drop you a card saying "stop my paper," this is the man who hurts his neighbor's feelings every time he turns out his cows, goes out to chop wood, work his garden, in fact every time he looks toward his neighbor's house. You receive the card from such a man and heartily wish that he had never read your paper. You better never it. The short blunt sentence "stop my paper" is outlined on your copy paper when you take your seat at the desk to write copy. When you read proof there is, in great ugly harsh lines, written "stop my paper." The exchanges have "stop my paper" printed all over them. Along in the evening you begin to associate men and the sentence "stop my paper" together. You remember all the mean, ugly men you ever knew in the same connection with "stop my paper." You fancy this "Jack the Ripper" is just the style of man who writes "stop my paper," then again you remember that Jack does not believe in continued torture, but makes quick work of his victims. Then you remember the savage as the very man who would be capable of writing just such a blunt sentence, it he subscribes for and read papers, but then again you remember that the savage steals your horses, your children, takes your top hair off to adorn his belt, but is not cowardly enough to drop a postal card in the office with "stop my paper" on it or send you word "stop my paper" without even giving a reason. You go home in the evening with a bad case of the "blues." All the houses on your way have "stop my paper" written on them. Your milk cows, buggy horse, chickens and pigs are all branded "stop my paper" in the same hateful, rough, insulting head. Your axe, while chopping wood, cries out, "stop my paper." The old pump with every breath of water emitted screeches out "stop my paper." You go to bed thinking of rough on rats, pistols, razors, and little pieces of rope all bearing the trade mark "stop my paper." After trying in vain for hours to picture the features of the man who writes or sends you word, "stop my paper," you go to sleep, and it is then that he visits you in your dreams with his short horns, spiked tail, cloven feet with sharp toes. He floats around you with his hideous grin and says in tones choked with sulphur and smoke, "You do not run your paper to suit me, so 'stop my paper.'"

The Charm of Cleanliness.

A white-yellow cravat or shirt on a man speaks at once the character of his wife; and he who is assured that she will not take with your dress pains which she has never taken with her own. Then the manner of putting on the dress is no bad foundation for judging—if it be carelessly, slovenly—if it do not properly fit, no matter for its mean quality; mean as it may be, it may be neatly and trimly put on, and if it be not, take care of yourself, for, as you will soon find to your cost, a sloven in one thing is a sloven in a great many if not all things. The country people judge from the state of the covering of ankles; and if it be not clean and tight, they conclude that all out of sight is not as it ought to be. Look at the shoes; if they be trodden on one side, loose on the foot, or run down at the heel, it is a very bad sign; and, as to slippers, though at coming down in the morning, and even before daylight, make up your mind to a rope, rather than to live with a slippers wife. Oh, how much do women lose by inattention to those matters! Men, in general, say nothing about it to their wives, (some dare not,) but they think about it; they envy their luckier neighbors; and, in numerous cases, consequences, most serious, arise from apparently trifling cause. Beauty is valuable—it is one of the ties, and a strong tie, too, however, cannot last to an old age; but the charms of cleanliness never ends but with life itself.

Responsibility of Being a Christian.

It is a glorious thing to be young, especially to be a young Christian; I say further it is a most responsible thing to be a young Christian today. For those of them, of them, of them, much shall be required. Power makes responsibility; you are responsible not merely for what you are trying to do, but for what God has given you the power to do. O, wake up the slumbering possibilities of your soul, you are responsible for all these. Stir up the unused, inactive gifts that are in you, you are responsible for these. The things you can do, or can learn to do, are the things Christ is calling you to do. It is said that Oliver Cromwell, while visiting one of the great churches of England, discovered a number of silver statues in the niches of side chapel and demanded sternly of the trembling dean: "What are these?" "Praise your Highness," was the reply, "they are the twelve apostles." "The twelve apostles," said he, "Well, take them down, and coin them into money, that, like their Master, they may go about doing good." I see many rich gifts and powers adorning your lives—gifts of speech, of song, of love, of influence, of capacity for work. They are very beautiful there, in your soul, but Christ wants them at work, doing good.

This is my first counsel to Christian young people. Bring every grace and gift of your life into Christ's service. Not only use well the gifts you have employed already, but develop what you have into greater skill and power. Strive to excel. Grow by working. An artist, when asked: "What is your best picture?" answered: "My next." Never look back for your best work for Christ, but forward; make to-morrow your best day.

Oration.

The following is an oration delivered by Jo. B. Rogers, Sr., at No. 25, Kentucky, April 9, which he was requested to have published:

Yesterday, to-day and to-morrow. Yesterday thou art gone forever. Thou hast brought glad tidings to the humble cottage, to the weary and oppressed; yet thou hast broken the strongest of hearts. Who can tell what love was blighted yesterday, or who can tell what hero wept? Yesterday the great proud cities of Sodom and Gomorrah were damned and sank beneath the dead sea. Yesterday Rome was founded that great city, which sat upon seven hills and ruled the world; yesterday Columbus discovered America, our own native home; yesterday America's Independence was declared. It was but yesterday when Cornwallis surrendered to that noble General, George Washington.

Who is so wise that he can say what was done yesterday? Or who is so wise that he can say what was not done? How many generations have been before us? Who inhabited America before the Mound Builders? When and by whom were those great Pyramids of Egypt built? The history of these have been lost in the dim twilight of antiquity, and buried beneath the shadows of oblivion. When we meditate over the past and think of the associates formed in early youth, we can only do this with a pang of regret and a sigh for childhood again. Past, sweet past, we bid thee a long farewell. To-day is all that we can call our own. We are surrounded by many trials, and all the blessings of liberty and freedom, to-day we live in the grandest Government upon the earth, and perhaps the greatest that ever existed or ever will exist, to-day opportunities are waited to you and to me, let us accept these opportunities as all great men have done before us.

Men have been great, grand and glorious by accepting opportunities that came. While upon the other hand they have not only become poor and poverty-stricken, but have been doomed to an eternal woe. "O, Jerusalem, Jerusalem, how often would I have gathered thy children together even as a hen gathers her brood under her wings, and ye would not!" To-day is the golden moment. To-day we make ourselves what to-morrow finds us.

To-morrow is the day of hope, pleasure and sunshine. We have hope that to-morrow will bring us some good fortune, that some good news may be waited to our ears, that we may meet with success, or that we may gain a higher reputation among our fellow men. We have pleasures pointed out to us that to-morrow we expect to possess, some may be real, but some are as fleeting as the mist before the rising sun. To-morrow we expect to find that path that leads down by the little streamlet, whose banks are entwined with wild flowers, and whose water trickles over the pebbles beneath, while upon the bough over head sits the little bird singing their sweet song that seem to make all the earth resound with joy and gladness.

Who has an eye so keen that can pierce the dense fog of to-morrow and say what will be? What Roman in his day could say our Government will forever stand?

I ask you, ladies and gentlemen, when shall our Government cease to exist, when shall our Constitution be trodden under the foot of man, or shall our Government forever stand with that proud banner, floating over its free soil, proclaiming liberty throughout untold ages?

WILL YOU SUFFER with Dyspepsia and Liver complaint? Shiloh's Vitalizer is guaranteed to cure you. Sold by Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro.

FRIENDSHIP.

April 19.—Some of the farmers here were going to begin planting corn but owing to the recent rain I suppose they will have to wait awhile. He Even Had That Drug.

A chemist was boasting in the company of friends of his well assorted stock in trade.

"There isn't a drug missing," he said, "not even one of the most uncommon sort."

"Come now," said one of the bystanders by way of a joke, "I'm quite sure you don't keep any spirit of Contradiction, well stocked as you pretend to be."

"Why not?" replied the chemist, not the least embarrassed at the unexpected sallies.

"You shall see for yourself."

So saying he left the room and returned in a few minutes leading by the hand his wife.

How Protection Has Worked in the Case of Calico.

to buy me a piece of English cotton prints. He paid 5 cents a yard for it and sent it to me. I asked my wife to go to a store here in Washington, not distinguished for its cheap prices, perhaps, and get me an American print of equal quality and inform me what she had to pay for it. She bought a piece that she said was better and she paid 5 cents a yard for it, precisely the English price. Thirty-eight cents a yard when we first applied Protection, 5 cents to-day, and every yard made in this country. We never could have established the manufacture of those articles if we had not adopted Protection. The price would never have fallen as low as it has if it had not been for Protection.

There's a good deal of guarantee business in the store keeping of to-day. It's too excessive. Of too reluctant. Half of the time it means nothing. This offer to refund the money, or to pay a reward, is made upon the hope that you won't want your money back, and that you won't claim the reward. Of course.

So, whoever is honest in making it, and works—not on his own reputation alone, but through the local dealer, when you know, must have something he has faith in back of the guarantee. The business won't stand a year without it. What is lacking in confidence. Back of that, what is lacking is that clear honesty which is above "the average practice." Mr. Pierce's medicines are guaranteed to accomplish what they are intended to do, and their makers give the money back if the result isn't apparent? Doesn't it strike you that a medicine, which the makers have so much confidence in, is the medicine for you?

WASHINGTON.

April 25. Senator Sherman surprised a great many people when he stated that the Committee on Foreign Relations had after a close examination become convinced that the present Chinese exclusion laws would not expire until 1894, as it had generally been accepted that the laws expired on the 4th of next month. This conclusion of that Committee resulted in postponing indefinitely the debate on the new Chinese exclusion bill, which had been on the program for the day. Its place was taken by the Morgan silver resolution, and several silver speeches have been made, including a rather sharp one by Senator Teller along the same lines as the one made by his young colleague, Senator Wolcott, recently.

The Democrats had a very pretty fight over Hill and Cleveland factions in the House, this week, the bone of contention being the report of the Election Committee in favor of Col. Noyes, a Republican contestant from the 28th New York district. The rumpus was enjoyed by the Republicans, who took little part in it, further than to vote solidly in favor of giving Col. Noyes the seat to which he had been elected.

Senator Hill has gone over bag and baggage to the camp of the free coinage Democrats, as shown by his vote on the bill to amend the Arizona funding act. This is the last resort of a demagogue to gain strength in the South and in the North-west, after having got all the votes it was possible for him to get in the Eastern and Middle States. Gorman, who is playing fast and loose with both Cleveland and Hill, lived up to his reputation as a trickster by sneaking out of the Senate before the vote was taken, which would put him on record upon the silver question. If any evidence had been needed to prove that Gorman expects the fight between Cleveland and Hill to result in the killing off of them both and his own nomination it would have been furnished by his dodging this vote.

Senator Chandler has introduced a bill appropriating $2,000 for the purchase of the marble bust of Gen. Grant made by Franklin Simmons, the celebrated American sculptor.

Laundrymaid pretty and stout,
Was lately in trouble and doubt,
For her best counterpanes
Had some very black stains
But CLAIRETTE SOAP took them out.
